CESD very pleased with exam results

by Tamara Collins

Chinook's Edge School Division (CESD) announces improved scores on the 2003-2004 provincial exam results.

"We continue to be a leader of Alberta school divisions, when it comes to improving student learning," said Jim Gibbons, superintendent, CESD. "The exam results are a credit to the students, as well as to our dedicated staff who are working together to see that students succeed. We also thank parents and members of the community who provide critical support."

Eight out of every 10

Achievement Exam subjects were at or above the acceptable average level. In three out of nine Diploma Exam subjects, CESD students were at or above the acceptable level. Achievement exams are given to students in grades three, six and nine. Diploma exams are given in grade 12.

"We are especially pleased with our math results in grades three, six and nine and in Applied Math," said Dot Negropones, assistant superintendent, CESD. "We've had math as a core focus in professional development both at the division and school levels. The continuous, steady improvement over a period of years shows this emphasis is effective."

Provincially, participation rates in these Achievement exams were significantly above average.

"That is important because it shows Chinook's Edge includes all students in the testing process regardless of their abilities," said Gibbons. "We want to get an accurate picture of what is happening with all of our students."

Gibbons went on to say the division will be taking a close look at diploma exam results.

"We are committed to a thorough analysis and that will enable us to move forward," said Gibbons. "We look at the data and use that as a basis for action."

A recent study by the Society for Advancement of Excellence in Education singled out CESD as one of the top four Alberta Boards for improving student learning.

"Change takes time," said Gibbons. "As we continue to see the trends of improvement in our achievement exam results, it means those students will be more prepared for high school."

Gibbons said the division is excited about a number of initiatives that will improve student learning, including a new one at the grade seven to 12 level, on assessment. Assessment helps educators determine if a student is mastering the curriculum. Teachers from nine Chinook's Edge schools met in late August, and will continue working throughout the year.

"This type of initiative is what makes Chinook's Edge such a great place for students," said Gibbons. "Educators are truly focused on what's best for the students, and they show it in the work they do."

CALGARY HEALTH REGION New treatment for Cancer patients

by Tamara Collins

The Calgary Health Region announced a new technology that will help some Albertans, with certain types of inoperable tumors and other neurological abnormalities, be treated with Novalis Shaped Beam Surgery. This technology will offer non-invasive, state of the art cancer treatment to patients with cancerous and non-cancerous tumors in the brain, spine, prostate, liver and lung.

The Tom Baker Cancer Centre, in Calgary, will be the first Centre in Canada to offer this new technology.

"Radiosurgery describes the method of using a large dose of highly precise radiation to kill cancerous or non cancerous cells," said Dr. Peter Craighead, Medical director of the Alberta Radiosurgery Centre. "Novalis Shaped Beam Surgery gives us a way to precisely target tumors in sensitive areas, lessening the risk of damaging areas that control important memory, emotion, speech and muscle movement."

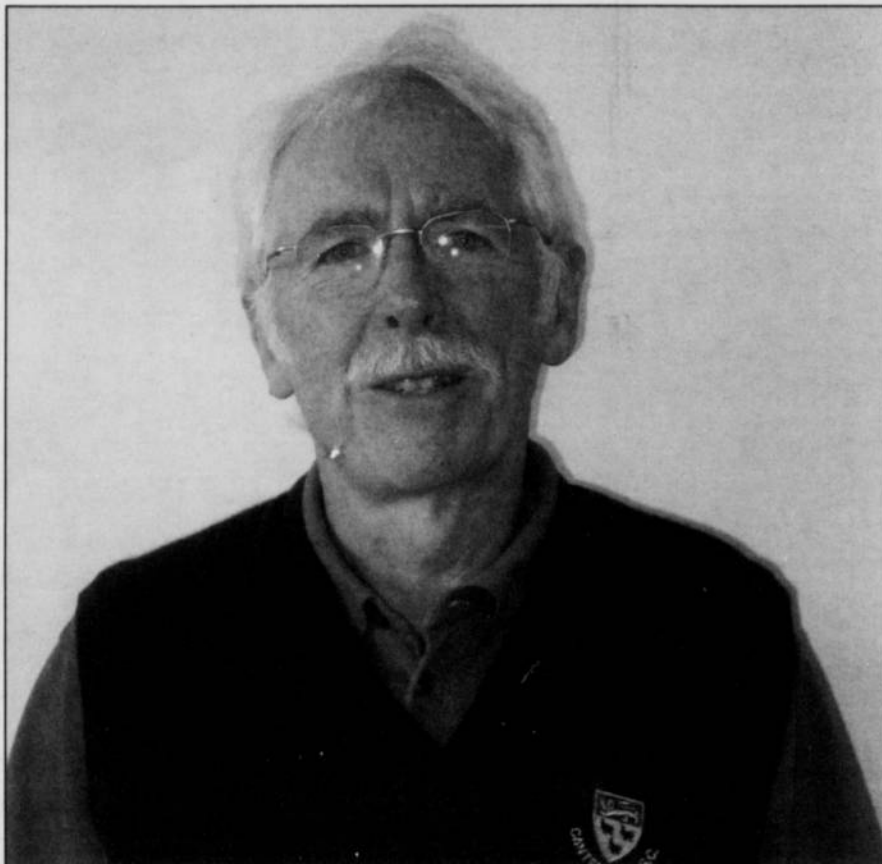

Traditional surgery sometimes requires intensive care after the operation and long recovery times. With Novalis technology, patients can be treated in a fast, painless way that enables them to quickly return to their daily routine.

"We are proud to be the first site in Canada to get this technology manufactured by Brainlab. Thanks to the support of the strong partnership between the Alberta Cancer Board, Calgary health Region, the Calgary Health Trust and donors, Calgary will also become a Centre of Excellence for Radiosurgery," said Dr. Rajiv Midha, Division Head Neurosurgery, CHR.

The Calgary Health Trust is raising $4 million to purchase the technology.

"Bringing advanced cancer technology to patients is a top priority," said explains Dr. Tony Feilds, Acting CEO Alberta Cancer Board. "This technology, combined with the expertise of our cancer care specialists will significantly expand the level of care we can provide to cancer patients across Alberta."

Two term school board trustee won't seek re-election

Ian Taylor

by Shaune Mohl

Two term, and much respected Chinook's Edge School Division (CESD) Trustee for Ward 9, Ian Taylor will not be seeking a third term in office.

The main reason Taylor won't be tossing his hat into the political ring was because of boundary changes, which moves him into the Didsbury riding.

Taylor for the past two terms (or six years) has represented the residents and students of Cremona, Carstairs, and Midway.

Taylor chaired a boundary review committee, which put himself in a different riding.

"We re-did the boundaries so that they made more sense. I am hoping this next election it will make it easier for people to vote," Taylor said.

Prior to the boundary changes Taylor was not only representing Cremona, Carstairs, and Midway students - but he was also the representative for some southern Didsbury residents.

The new boundaries now puts the trustee more in line with the schools.

So, now if your son or daughter attends school in Didsbury, your trustee will be from the Didsbury area.

Education has always been a very important topic that was near and dear to Taylor's heart, as he is a retired school teacher - making his interest in running for school board self explanatory.

planatory.

Taylor was an educator for a number of years starting his teaching career off in England, where he was raised, before moving to Canada.

Once he moved to Canada, he eventually landed himself a position as shop teacher at Hugh Sutherland School (HSS) in Carstairs, and finished off his career at a school in Didsbury.

From 1981 to 1996 Taylor taught in Didsbury, where he retired from his principal position to only take one year off before running for school board.

In the year between his retirement and his decision to seek office, Taylor started up a homebased business where he builds furniture.

The main reason why Taylor decided to toss his hat into the political ring was because he wanted to see some changes take place.

"I was really annoyed with the way things had been going and in the direction they had been going on in the past," he said. Being a Principal for a number of years Taylor knew, for the most part, the inner workings of how a school board operated and worked.

"I had a good understanding of how things worked and the role of a trustee. I probably felt more confident than the average citizen in having that knowledge," Taylor said.

Taylor says that when he was seeking election, he did receive some negative comments towards his decision to seek office.

"As a retired teacher, some thought I was going to push the interests of the teachers," he said.

Now having sat on the board for six years, Taylor says he looks at things from a different perspective now.

"It has changed my outlook on things. When you become elected, you have a different boss - the taxpayers," Taylor said. One of the hardest things that was required when Taylor took office, but one he is proud of, was earning the respect of his fellow trustees.

"The first thing I did when I took office was to try to gain the trust and respect of the other trustees. If you can do this, it's easier to persuade the Board when you are trying to push something through, because they will actually listen to you," he said. "All together, I believe we have been a functional board. I felt I established credibility with other trustees... You have to learn how to get your way in a persuasive way. Your people skills become essential."

Practical Arts push
Being a shop teacher at heart Taylor has always pushed for practical arts and trying to make the board realize the importance of the subject.

"I pushed the board to get more money put into the practical arts because it had really been neglected," Taylor said. "There is still a tremendous value in them."

CESD, being the largest 'truly rural' school division -

Taylor and the board as a whole have been busy.

Taylor says that at times he has put his neck on the line and really pushed for parents and programs that might not have been favoured by the majority of the board.

"I have really tried to fight for the underdog," he said. "But, I believe this is a trustees role - to speak up for the little guy."

With CESD being so large - stretching as far south as Carstairs and going as far north as Sylvan Lake, and even one school within the City of Red Deer, trustees on CESD board become more relied upon.

"When you have a division, like CESD, that is so spread out, you get to rely a lot more heavily on the trustee. Trustees in rural school divisions carry a lot more importance to the community."

Taylor says he decided not to try to seek re-election in the Didsbury riding as he has confidence in Roy Brassard, who sought re-election - and was, actually acclaimed.

"I think Roy will be a good rep. He has been a tremendous asset to the board and I have a lot of respect for him," Taylor said.

Taylor admits that he will miss his seat on the Board.

"I am kind of sad. When you have done something for six years and leaving a group of people, of course you are going to be a little sad. But, you never know... I may try again in the future," Taylor said.

Taylor believes that one can tell when they are still interested in political office, or not.

"You can tell you're still doing a good job if you are still able to get excited about certain topics," he said.

Taylor says he has absolutely no regrets about running for political office and believes he made a positive difference.

"I have no regrets, I just hope I have done more good than harm," he said. "I am glad I did it, definitely."

One thing which Taylor wishes the average resident would understand is the importance of a school board. CESD has a $90 million operation budget - bigger than any local municipality.

"That is bigger than any municipal budget - Town or County - in this division," Taylor said.

Taylor says he will revert to his workshop where he will be working on building furniture again, and he and his wife are considering travelling sometime in the future.

"It will be hard getting used to not being on the board. The focus of your thoughts, even when your not at a meeting, is on the board. I have often found myself thinking about board issues when I am just sitting at home or working in my shop," he said.

Taylor says he appreciates the support local constituents have given him over the past six years.

Didsbury's Centennial

TAMARA COLLINS
EDITORIAL

In honor of the town of Didsbury's Centennial year, the Didsbury Review will be featuring a special section once a month. The first of these twelve sections is featured in this week's paper.

These sections called the "Didsbury Pioneer", is a cooperative project between the Didsbury Review and the Didsbury Historical Society. Each month will focus on a ten year period in Didsbury's history.

This month the focus is 1900-1910. News articles and ads that ran during that time period will be featured in this section.

The Historical Society and we at the Review are all VERY excited about this project, and we are hoping you are too. Reading through these pieces, we have had a lot of good laughs.

Each section will be made so you can easily pull it out, and have it for a keepsake.

Once the year comes to an end, we will be putting all the sections together to make a commemorative Centennial book.

Learn about Didsbury's past in a fun, exciting way.

The last page of each section will feature current Centennial events.

Wonderings of the heart

"Decisions"

Making decisions is not always easy. We are faced with making decisions every day, some very difficult ones, that could change our lifestyle or cause other major changes in our lives, and in the lives of those we love, other decisions require much less time and thought.

How do we make decisions? Do we pray about them, give ourselves ample time to think things through, do we consult friends and others whom we have come to trust, to help and guide us? I am sure we have all made decisions we regret, but also decisions that have greatly benefited us. Before making a major decision I always felt I wanted to "sleep on it" for a time, but I did not always follow through with that, which often resulted in wishing I had taken more time.

I am sure we have all learned that it is not wise to make 'hasty decisions' - there are times we seem to get a 'check in our spirits' and it is then I feel, we need time to 'just wait.' So often we want what we want yesterday, we feel an urgency to move on, but discover "haste makes waste". If we are going through an emotional time, it is not advisable to make a major decision which requires a great deal of change in our lives.

Change is inevitable, decisions unavoidable, but we need to take the time and patience it takes to make the right ones, if we have a 'decision' to make today, let's handle it with caution, willing to wait until we have a sense of well being about it.

More families can get free health benefits

More families are now eligible for premium-free benefits for their children through the Alberta Child Health Benefit (ACHB) because eligibility levels have been increased. This helps the Government of Alberta meet an important goal of Alberta's income support programs, to give people in need a handup rather than a hand-out.

The ACHB provides children in low-income families with free coverage for health, dental and optical care, including new glasses, prescription drugs, emergency ambulance service and essential diabetic supplies. Eligibility is based on income and number of children in the family.

Increases in the qualifying income level mean that a one-child family with income up to $24,397 could qualify. Coverage is also being extended to 18 and 19 year olds who are living with their parents and going to high school.

Another change to ACHB eligibility gives special consideration for those families whose previous year's income exceeds the qualifying level but who have had a significant change in their income and who are faced with high ongoing health costs.

The ACHB can make a big difference to children in low-income working families. A survey of 500 parents whose children were enrolled in the ACHB showed that two-thirds obtained health services for their children that they otherwise would not have sought.

A major challenge for the ACHB is getting the word out to families who may benefit.

Results from the survey also show that most families who are enrolled heard of the ACHB from other parents, extended family or, in many cases, school counsellors.

You can help too. If you know someone whose children could benefit, contact my constituency office for an information and application kit, click on www.gov.ab.ca/hre/achb, or call 1-877-4-MY-KIDS (469-5437).

Some Perspectives

Dear Editor:

It must be frustrating for our current County Council to have a 'Shadow Council' reviewing their every move. The group calling themselves the Mountain View Taxpayers Association (MVTA) seems intent on making the democratic process very frustrating for our council members.

There is though, another larger group, and they are the Mountain View Taxpayers. In this group is included the majority of voters who elected this council.

Let's call them the Majority of Mountain View Taxpayers (MMVT). (To be clear, although I am a taxpayer and the writer of this letter, I am not a voter.)

It seems to me that a council is elected for a three year term to make decisions on our behalf. We hope after the election, they can function in an environment where clear informed decisions can be made with the information available.

The MMVT can then go about their daily lives and know that these democratically elected councillors are doing their best to run our county with the mandate given them.

In contrast, the MVTA seem to have appointed themselves to be pretty much against whatever happens in Didsbury with our elected council. The MVTA didn't like the electorates choice of councillors in the previous term, and they don't seem to like the choice in this term either.

So they deluge the press with letters venting this frustration, and do whatever they can to cripple the process of running our County.

We have sat back and allowed this to happen. And, it has just plain cost us in dollars and efficiency.

We have elected in the past, and we elected for this term, capable and dedicated people. While we may from our armchairs not all agree with each and every decision, we know that these councillors have the best possible information in front of them and that they are making decisions using their best judgment.

I'm not going to be one to second guess the MMVT who democratically elected these people and asked them to represent us, shouldering the responsibilities involved.

The results of the past and current voting decisions of the Majority of Mountain View Taxpayers is that we have one of the best run counties in the province.

Our past and current council should have our congratulations, not ridicule and confrontation.

It's easy to criticize, but not so easy to be in the hot seat, surrounded with information and vocal critics, and make decisions every day. While activists in our society, and certainly in this county, make up much of the press we see, positive press and responses are much less frequent.

To our councillors I would say: You have done well in difficult circumstances. Most of us respect the mandate given you, and maybe we have been just a little too silent when it comes to ongoing support in helping you do the job you were asked you to do.

When I look around our county and Alberta, I say, "Something good has been happening here".

I stewed over writing this letter and entering the fray, but I think I speak for many county taxpayers when I say to our council, "Thanks for your committed efforts".

Let's hope we make good, rational and thought out decisions when electing our next council this fall, and may Mountain View County stay the course.

A Mountain View
County Taxpayer,
Mark Wright

Addressing consistency

by Carla Victor

A new rural addressing system for Mountain View County will provide systematic and consistent addressing throughout the county.

Residents of Mountain View County will receive notification of their new address sometime before the end of this year, said Special Constable Jayson Nelson, who brought the rural addressing bylaw before council to receive its final approval, Sept. 22.

As of Jan. 1, 2005, any new developments will have to erect approved rural address signage within three months of getting their development permit.

Existing residents won't be legally required to post their new addresses until Jan. 1, 2007.

"Although we are grandfathering existing residences, I see this as a public safety issue and strongly encourage people to get their address signage up as soon as possible," said Nelson.

The ultimate goal of this program is to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of response by emergency service providers when responding to county residents in need of assistance.

Nelson said all the new addresses will pinpoint exactly where to access a property and will work with a new Global Positioning System (GPS) mapping used by Mountain View County.

Using a hypothetical address, 3221 TWP RD 32.0, Nelson demonstrated how new addresses work.

TWP RD 32.0 indicates this property is accessed off township road 32.0. The first two numbers (32) indicate this property is located west of RGE RD 3.2.

The last two numbers (21) indicate which side, and how far along, that residence or development is located on that road.

"It helps to think of this as a town or city address," said Nelson. "In any town or city the first thing you look at is the street address, rural addressing is exactly the same."

In the case of a range road, a hypothetical address could be: 32016 RR 2.0.

The first part of this address tells you this property is located north of TWP RD 32.0. The last two numbers indicate which side, and how far you are located on range road 2.0.

Once enforced, all address signs must be placed within two metres of the shoulder of a driveway or approach and be located within one metre from the property boundary.

Each sign letter or number must be white on a blue reflective background.

The sign must be affixed a minimum of one metre from ground level and no higher than 2.5 metres from ground level.

Mountain View County will purchase and install large map signs for larger existing subdivisions and smaller address signs at the entrance to smaller, less complicated, subdivisions. Each resident will be responsible for the cost of their residence sign.

Once the bylaw is enforced, anyone contravening it could be subject to a $50 fine.

BSE Incentive Program

by Tamara Collins

A new BSE incentive program is expected to help local farmers make some extra money, while testing animals.

This new program called the 4D BSE Sample Incentive Program, is asking farmers to have their cows over 30 months old, tested for BSE.

"We need to test 2700 cows this year and 10,000 next year," said Gord Krebs, Krebs and Co. Vet Clinic.

"So far the government has only done 1000."

All cows over 30 months of age should be tested, because that is the high risk age group.

"We are encouraging farmers to submit samples, and the producer will get $225 for the submission," said Krebs. "There are no expenses to the producer, they just must keep track of the animal for one to three days, until the results come in."

The program is called 4D

because there are four categories the animal must fall into, sudden or found dead, down animals, diseased animals and distressed animals.

Farmers can phone the Krebs and Co. Vet Clinic to come and look at the animal once it is post mortem, and they will fill out the paper work.

"There are no limits within the category," said Krebs. "My job is to fit the four Ds."

If you are worried about an animal testing positive,

Krebs insists it is better we find it, then the Americans find it.

"The purpose of this program is to find out if any animals have BSE," said Krebs. "If we were to find one, that proves the system is working."

To find out if an animal is over 30 months, you can look at it's teeth, see pictures above.

"This program is a great thing to do if we are going to get things going again," said Krebs. "We must do what we can. These animals must get tested if we want the borders to open up again, it is an international requirement."

This program is a Canadian program, supplemented by an Alberta program.

There will be a Producers Information meeting, put on by Krebs and Co. on Oct. 13th, at 7 pm, at the Curling Rink. This program will be one of the things discussed there, if you have any questions you are welcome to attend, or call the Clinic.

Count your many blessings

Dear Family and Friends,

"Count your many blessings." It's good to do once in a while, and we have much for which to be thankful. Last Sunday we ate lunch at the Net Café. I observed the clean, neat surroundings and reflected that we are indeed fortunate. When I lived 'down bush' the best place in town to eat was a chop house with very spicy food and no ambience. I also thought last Sunday that we are very fortunate to have so many missionary friends. While I lived in Sokoto State I drove forty kilometres to fellowship with one of our missionaries. Now we have dozens of friends who encourage and challenge us each week. Janet pointed out that we are also blessed to have good non-missionary friends in the community. The lady who owns the Net Café is my bridge partner and our opponents are good Greek friends from Cyprus. Of course we count many Nigerians as friends as well as cherish their fellowship. We are indeed blessed.

This week the overseas phone cards were usable once again. Lightning had struck and destroyed a vital component of the system. This week that component was replaced, after several weeks. I took advantage of the system to phone my Mother back in Didsbury. She is getting ready to travel to Seattle to visit her daughter, and then on to California to spend time with her son. She's still really enjoying the Lodge and its facilities in Didsbury. We are so grateful that Mom is happy and able to get around, even at age 86.

The weight room at Hillcrest is back in use. I'm back to lifting a bit. We were at the rest house run by S.I.M. for the Hillcrest staff retreat at the end of September, and the bed didn't help my back. For two or three weeks I couldn't touch my toes—I'm not sure I can now!! Anyway, I'd feel better after I'd played tennis or did some other exercise. Then Janet and I decided that we both needed to lose at least ten pounds, so we started eating a bit more moderately and doing more exercise. Janet is back to the water aerobics and I'm being more faithful at walking.

But I knew I needed some exercise for my upper body strength. I checked out the weight room and it was locked with a note saying "Closed for renovations and cleaning." I talked with the teacher in charge of P.E. and he said that they were cleaning all of the weights and re-doing the ceiling.

Sincerely,
Dan for the Snyders

Things are sure to heat up at the Fire Dept.'s Open House

by Tamara Collins

Fire Prevention week is just around the corner, so get your smoke alarms ready for repairs, and yourself ready for the Didsbury Fire Department's annual Open House.

The Open House will be held on Oct. 6th from 7 pm till 8:30 pm, at the Didsbury Fire Hall.

This Open House is a great opportunity for Didsburians to get acquainted with their Fire Department.

"We will show off the equipment, and do demonstrations on how everything works," said Greg Hnatiuk, of the Fire Dept. "There will be juice, coffee, and donuts there."

Fire Prevention Week runs this year from Oct. 3rd to the 9th.

The theme this year, and every year, is "Smoke detectors save lives".

"We ask everyone to replace the batteries in their smoke detectors that week," said Hnatiuk. "The Fire Department will be going around to some houses checking for alarms, helping people install them, just giving assistance if needed."

Kids are very welcome at the Open House.

"Kids can come out and try on stuff," said Hnatiuk. "Our new truck is going to be the big thing, it is going to be a great night."

Focus on the Family

QUESTION: Many of the struggles of the teen years are attributed to hormones. If that explanation is accurate, then what implications does it have for parents of early adolescents?

DR. DOBSON: First, understanding this glandular upheaval makes it easier to tolerate and cope with the emotional reverberations that are occurring. For several years, some kids are not entirely rational! Just as a severely menopausal woman may accuse her innocent and bewildered husband of infidelity, a hormonally depressed teenager may not interpret his world accurately, either. His social judgment is impaired.

Therefore, parents shouldn't despair when it looks like everything they have tried to teach their kid seems to have been forgotten. He is going through a metamorphosis that has turned everything upside down. But stick around. He'll get his legs under him again!

I strongly recommend that parents of strong-willed and rebellious females, especially, quietly keep track of the particulars of her menstrual cycle. Not only should you record when her period begins and ends each month, but also make a comment or two each day about her mood. I think you will see that the emotional blowups that tear the family apart are cyclical in nature. Premenstrual tension at that age can produce a flurry of skirmishes every 28 days. If you know they are coming, you can retreat to the storm cellar when the wind begins to blow. You can also use this record to teach your girls about premenstrual syndrome and how to cope with it. Unfortunately, many parents never seem to notice the regularity and predictability of severe conflict with their daughters. Again, I recommend that you watch the calendar. It will tell you so much about your girls.

QUESTION: How about adolescent boys. Do they have a hormonal cycle too?

DR. DOBSON: Their emotions and behavior are certainly driven by hormones. Everything from sexual passion to aggressiveness is motivated by the new chemicals that surge through their veins. There is, however, no cyclical fluctuation that parallels a menstrual calendar in girls. As a result, they can be more volatile and less predictable throughout the month than their female counterparts.

QUESTION: It is commonly understood that peer pressure causes teenagers to begin smoking and using drugs. Is that what really motivates them to pick up dangerous habits?

DR. DOBSON: That precise question was the subject of a recent survey. The researchers studied more than 16,000 schoolchildren in Orange County, Calif. They found that it was family members, not classmates or teachers, who have the biggest influence on whether children used drugs, alcohol or tobacco. If teenagers felt that their parents or siblings approved of smoking, they were likely to follow suit. And if there was one person who could convince them not to participate, it was usually a member of their own family.

Many parents feel that this is an area that can be left to the schools, and they neglect to talk about it at home. But this study and others show that family pressure, not peer pressure, has the greatest effect on children. Another finding to come out of the investigation is that children are still dangerously unaware of the hazards of smoking. Obviously, the anti-smoking advertising campaign has not reached their tender ears.

Like other messages we want our children to hear, the responsibility to communicate them rests with parents. Talk to your sons and daughters when they are young about the dangers of cigarette smoking. Tell them that you don't approve of the habit. Discuss the health hazards, including the risk of cancer and lung disease. And offer them professional help in quitting if they've already started. Warn them repeatedly about drug abuse and what it can do to the body.

Parents can make a difference in avoiding addictive behavior in their children if they take the time to teach them. Most of them can even counterbalance the peer group.

Women should Vote.

The mock parliament held in the opera house on Tuesday night by the Presbyterian Church Guild was a Great success, the lodge room being filled by an attentive audience. Several of the ladies contributed songs.. C. Hiebert, M.P.P., very capably filled the speaker's chair, while, J. E. A. Macleod was the leader of the government forces and Dr. Gaddes filled the same position for the opposition. The main question under discussion was woman's suffrage and needless to say the government forces, who were in favour of giving the women a vote, were fully sustained by a vote of the audience present.

Early Closing.

Manager Berscht of the football club has been busy this week circulating a petition amongst the merchants asking them to close their places of business at 7 o'clock each evening except Saturday, commencing May 1st. Practically all hands have signed the document and next week we will publish the names of those who have agreed to close.

Letters:

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Didsbury:
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am a candidate for the position of Mayor of your town.

I beg to ask you for your vote on Monday next. If you do me the honour of electing me it will be my aim to work for the interests of all parts of the town.

Thanking you for your confidence in me in the past, and hoping to merit a continuance of the same confidence in the future, I am,

Yours faithfully,

H. B. ATKINS.

To the Ratepayers of Didsbury:
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.

At the nomination meeting on Monday last my name was brought forward for Councillor for 1910-11, and I would solicit your vote and influence for my election on Monday next. If elected I will fill the position on to the best of my ability and to the best interests of the ratepayers

Respectfully yours,
B. A. ST. CLAIR.

To the Electors of the Town of Didsbury:
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.

As several of the ratepayers have expressed the wish that I should again become a candidate for the position of Councillor I have allowed my name to be placed before the electorate for their approval or disapproval and would ask for your vote and influence on Monday next if you think my past record as Councillor is satisfactory to you.

If elected I will still continue to use my best judgement and efforts for the benefit of the ratepayers and the advancement of the town as economically as possible.

Yours to command,

Want Didsbury Milk

We understand negotiations are under way with a number of farmers in the vicinity of Didsbury for the sale of their milk to a company in Calgary. The price offered is 17 1/2 cents per gallon, milk to be delivered at Didsbury each evening to go south on the 9.43 express, and the farmer to pay express charges. Contracts to hold for six months. Before entering in to the milk-shipping business the townspeople of Didsbury would like to have the farmers do a little thinking.

As milk weighs approximately ten pounds to the gallon it would require 10 gallons to produce 100 pounds of milk which selling at 17 1/2 cents a gallon would yield the farmer $1.75 per hundred pounds of milk. The express rate to Calgary is 80 cents per hundred pounds, consequently deducting shipping charges (80 cents) from the selling price ($1.75) the farmer actually receives 95 cents per 100 pounds of milk.

horses then bolted and galloped down Osler street on to Main street where they collided with another wagon hitched to a post there, turning it clean over and breaking the reach, also upsetting their own wagon, with the son underneath it. He was considerably cut about the face but we understand was fortunate enough to escape serious injury. Here they were stopped, and it was found they had broken the tongue of their own wagon.

Didsbury Town Council election special- Part 2

This will be Ernie Ryckman's first time running for Town Council, after much encouragement from his friends and family.

Ryckman is semi-retired, and believes he has the time to do the job properly.

"I was elected as a Trustee in the MD of Foothills from 1983 to 1986," said Ryckman. "We had a budget of $25 million, and I have also owned my own business since 1964, which is essentially like a cooperate board."

Ryckman believes there are a lot of similarities between Town Council and the MD of Foothills, and this makes him more than qualified.

"I was quite uneasy when I heard the current council was deeply divided," said Ryckman. "Not much can get done if that is the case, important things can get ignored."

If Ryckman gets voted into Council, he wants to concentrate on the heavy tax burden on residents. "Eighty percent of the taxes here are collected from residents," said Ryckman. "That is much too high. We need a plan in place to attract a larger business base."

Ryckman is also uneasy about the fact the current council has no long or short term plan in place.

"I operated a business in Calgary for many years and Calgary's plan is very good, we should have a similar plan in place here," said Ryckman. "I am also uneasy about all the crime and vandalism here."

This is Ryckman's 14th year in Didsbury, and through his sales he has had the opportunity to interact with a lot of people.

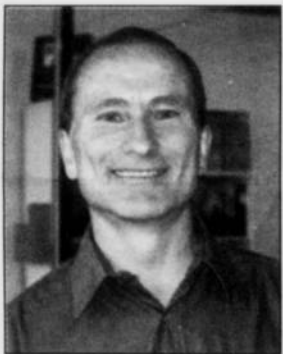

"I have good business skills and I listen to problems and try to do something about them," said Ryckman. "I have a business background that could be helpful attracting people to town."

With the time and experience, Ryckman is looking for something to keep him busy.

"A new council will bring a lot of fresh ideas to the table," said Ryckman. "Team work is the most important thing, we must be a united council to make things happen."

Ernie Ryckman

Bob Davidson

Bob Davidson is a familiar face around Didsbury from his work with the Ag Society and the Environmental Board, now Davidson has decided to run for Town Council, for a second time.

"I would like to have a little more say on how the town develops," said Davidson. "This town has a lot of history, such as old trees and buildings, and I want to see it stay that way."

Davidson has been on the Didsbury Environmental Advisory Board (DEAB) for over 15 years, and has lived in town for 23 years.

"There has been no major development downtown, and I was impressed with the re-development that did occur," said Davidson. "I do want to get a system in place to try and protect greenspace."

Davidson believes the key to having a strong council is working together.

"A council can become ineffective if they do not work together and cooperate," said Davidson. "If someone is there for the wrong reasons it can be very difficult for everyone. It can become ineffective without good communication."

Davidson has concerns about the fact there is very little greenspace in the part of town.

"This is the area of Didsbury where the most children live, yet there is almost no greenspace for them to play in," said Davidson. "There is one park, but it is not very well known. I don't like to see that, it is okay if you live in a large house or on an acreage, but that is not everyone."

Another concern Davidson has, is the fact there is no sidewalk on 15th Ave.

"Something is going to have to be done there," said Davidson. "Especially when the new high school is there."

Last time Davidson ran, which was two terms ago, he went around from door to door, asking people what their concerns were.

"They had lots of little concerns," said Davidson. "Some people were concerned that the school zone has a sign were it begins, but there is no sign saying were it ends."

Davidson believes the elected people must make decisions, and be responsible to the people of the town.

"People of the town really want a pathway where they can walk their dogs or run on," said Davidson.

"We are getting one in Memorial Park, and it was suppose to go along the creek, now it is going to be along the hill, and the council approved this. I don't know why."

A good public speaker, is how Davidson describes himself.

"I am a very social person, I always have lots to say," said Davidson. "I can work very well with people who are willing to cooperate. It has to be a cooperative effort, one person can't do it all."

This election is going to be Scott Puttick's first time running in any election, but Puttick is not new to the business world.

"I was born in Montreal and then I moved to Alberta," said Puttick. "I managed my first store when I was 20 years old, and I worked my way up."

Puttick has been with his current business for 25 years.

"I have had encouragement from a lot of people to run," said Puttick. "I have a desire to see Didsbury grow."

Puttick would like to focus on taxes, increasing industrial, encouraging more commercial, and finding more for the youths to do.

"It would be great to open a theatre here, or a bowling alley," said Puttick. "More things to keep the youth out of trouble." Puttick has a solid management background, he used to work for a company, straightening out messes.

"I would have to fix up stores that were in trouble," said Puttick.

For Didsbury, Puttick would like to see the quality of life here maintained.

"I have been here for 3 years now, and we (his wife and him) have found it amazing," said Puttick. "You walk down the street and even the youth say hello to you."

Puttick presently owns the Didsbury Dry Cleaners. "We moved here and liked it so much that my wife and I convinced both of our parents to move here," said Puttick.

Puttick believes the town will do nothing but grow from a new council, with so many fresh ideas.

"I would like to see taxes decrease, the debt load is outrageous, here we have a province that is now debt free, yet municipalities are struggling," said Puttick.

Puttick says he knows both Dorothy Moore and Ray Lea, the two people running for mayor, and he feels both are very qualified and would make excellent leaders. "Life is all about choices," said Puttick. "I am here to give people more of a choice."

Didsbury does have a choice, smoking or non?

by Tamara Collins

The smoking issue is a big one around town lately, but one restaurant is not waiting for a smoking bylaw to stop smokers, Jack Sheridan's restaurant has been non-smoking for three years.

"I made the decision to make, The Didsbury Inn, non-smoking about three years ago when a couple approached me," said Sheridan. "They said they loved the food here, but one of them was on oxygen and could not stand the smoke. He would have to leave in the middle of his meal to get some fresh air."

That was all Sheridan had to hear before it was clear to him non-smoking was the way he wanted his restaurant to be.

"It is a much better atmosphere here now," said Sheridan. "Lots of smokers still come here to eat, they just go outside to smoke."

At first Sheridan admits he lost some business, but now business is better than ever.

"I have even had smokers tell me they prefer eating in a non-smoking environment," said

Sheridan.

"Our air filters last a lot longer too. It is really amazing how much dirt nicotine causes."

The Inn is located on 19th St. in Didsbury, and has been there for 18 years.

"Another reason I did this, and probably the biggest reason is for children," said Sheridan.

"There are so many young mothers in Didsbury, and I see a lot of them smoke in front of their children, and this really upsets me. I did this for both adults and children."

CHAMBER CHAT

Candidates Election Forum

The 2004 Town of Didsbury Municipal election will surely go down in history. Thirteen candidates have submitted their nomination papers for Council with two candidates applying for the Mayor's job. The interest in the future of Didsbury by its citizens is obvious through the number of candidates willing to serve the community on Didsbury Town Council.

The Didsbury & District Chamber of Commerce will host a Municipal Candidates Forum where the citizens of Didsbury can meet and question each of the candidates running for office. The Forum will take place on Wednesday, October 6, 2004, in the Multipurpose Room of the Didsbury Memorial Complex. The Forum will start promptly at 7 pm with the doors open to the public at 6:30 pm. The Forum will provide ample opportunity for taxpayers to meet each of the candidates.

The candidates have graciously agreed to serve the community if elected. The Forum provides the community an opportunity to learn more about each candidate and select the most capable individuals for the job. Don't forget to vote October 18th!

ZION YOUTH GROUP PROJECT

Spuds to help Sudan

by Tamara Collins

The Zion Church Youth Group is involved in an operation to sell 85,000 pounds of potatoes to help the people suffering in Sudan.

The Church of God, in Carstairs, has grown three acres of potatoes this summer, in an effort to help people who are in need. After the crops were ready, people have donated time and diggers to get them ready to sell.

"So far we have donated 30,100 pound bags to the Mountain View County Foodbank," said Colin Creighton, Youth pastor at Zion. "We have also donated some to the Three Hills Foodbank and the Deer Valley Camp."

All the money raised will be donated to the Canadian Food Grains Bank, to help the people in Sudan.

"We are very excited about this project selling potatoes," said Creighton. "People can pay by donation, whatever they want."

People are asked to contact the Zion church to place a "potatoe order".

"It does not take too much for this to be a major donation," said Creighton. "The government matches whatever we raise four to one."

Orders will be taken until mid October.

"This is the first time we have ever tried anything like this," said Creighton. "We are hoping to make it an annual thing, it is a great way for the youth group to try and do something positive."

Airdrie Rocky Mountain Lightning have a great start to the season

It was a weekend of firsts for the Airdrie Rocky Mountain Lightning AAA midget hockey club.

The local squad, beginning their first year of action in the Rural Alberta Midget Hockey League, scored their first regular-season goal, won their first league game, completed their first sweep of an opposing team and then lost their first game.

Playing in Peace River Friday night in the opener of a back-to-back series against the Royals, the Lightning got an overtime goal from Adam Yurkowski to earn a 5-4 win in their first-ever RAMHL contest. The local club jumped ahead 3-1 after one period of action only to have the Royals battle back to knot the count at 4-4 after the regulation 60 minutes. Yurkowski's goal, after three minutes of four-on-four overtime, came from a pass from captain Mike Bannister and gave the two points to the Lightning.

Earlier, in the first period, Bannister had scored the first-ever regular season goal for the club with Ryan Miller digging the puck out of the corner to earn an assist. Defenceman Tyler Rasmussen added an assist on the play.

Rookie Yuzo Wakatsuki had two goals for the Lightning with rearguard Curtis Doll picking up the other tally.

Bannister ended with a four-point night with two more assists while Dustin Schlichter also earned an assist.

The second game against the Royals, played before a boisterous crowd of over 300 in Peace River, was a different tilt than the freewheeling opener. The Lightning got goals from Justin Frederick on a slick deflection of a blueline shot from Rasmussen and from John Lefebvre on a pass from Schlichter as they edged the Royals 2-1. This game was highlighted by solid defensive play from the Lightning defensive corps of Rasmussen, Doll, Colby Kramer, Braiden Burke, Harrison Tribble and Danny Miller who played with an injured finger.

Netminder Aaron Dell played a very strong game in limiting the host team to just one goal and made an outstanding glove save with five minutes left to preserve the win for the Lightning.

Moving the action to Grande Prairie for a Sunday afternoon contest against the Storm, the Lightning came out tired and listless in registering a 7-0 loss. The Storm, always a league powerhouse, dominated action from the start but goalie Garrett Sheehan, who had been steady in the first win by the Lightning, was outstanding in holding the hosts to a 1-0 lead after 20 minutes. A disputed goal early in the second period, which was initially not called by the referee, gave the Storm a 2-0 advantage and opened the floodgates for the Grande Prairie squad.

"We weren't at our best in this game," said coach Mark Rempel after the loss. "But we still ended up with four points out of a possible six on a long road trip and that's not too bad. We've got some things to work on and we're going to get better."

The Lightning face the defending league champion Wainwright Polar Kings in their home opener at the Carstairs Arena on Saturday at 7:15 p.m.

The local squad is carded through the Airdrie Minor Hockey Association and plays its home games in Carstairs. It is made up of the top midget-aged players from the County of Mountain View and the M.D. of Rocky View.

Fire at Didsbury

About 11 p.m. on Friday night last those of our residents who had retired for the night were awakened by a loud clanging of bells and repeated cries of fire. A few of our young men ran down to the fire hall and got out the chemical engines, and ran them to the scene of the fire, which was northwest of town. Upon arrival, however, it was found that it was only a straw pile that had ignited. The lads with the first engine were not to be balked of their prey however, so promptly began playing upon the flames, which were quickly got under.

There is a general impression that the alarm was given purposely to see how quick the engines were on the spot. The first alarm was given at 11 o'clock and the first engine was at the scene of the fire at 10 minutes past eleven. The fire was nearly half a mile from the fire hall.

The alarm caused much excitement until it was known that no property was in danger of being burned. The scene of the fire being out of the way of main roads, and night being dark, caused many an onlooker a tumble with the result of a few bruises in the morning.

Sudden Death

John Doerksen, a well known homesteader of the east country, came into town on Monday and after putting up his team went to the Alexandra hotel to stay for the night. While sitting in the reading room of the hotel he fell unto the floor in an epileptic fit from which he gradually recovered but shortly afterwards he was seized with another fit about 6.30 p.m., and before medical aid could reach him he was dead. Dr. Weart was called at once but after working over him for a considerable time all hopes were given up.

Mr. Doerksen was about 65 years of age and unmarried, coming to this district from Gretna Man., a few years ago. Mr. Geisbrecht of Sunnyslope is an uncle and Mrs. J. D. Dueck, Neapolis, a cousin of Mr. Doerksen's, he also leaves two brothers who are living in Manitoba. The body was taken to Gretna, Man., on Tuesday night for burial.

Doctor's Visit Costs $40
On Alberta's Prairies - DR.
CHASE'S Medicine and Receipt Book. Very Popular Out There.

The luxuries of city life are little known in the prairie homes of Western Canada. When sickness comes people find it necessary to depend on their own resources to a great extent on account of the difficulty and expense of a doctor's visit.

By reading the letter quoted here you will form some idea of how Dr. Chase's Medicines and Receipt Book are appreciated in Alberta. This is not only due to the convenience of having these medicines on hand when occasion requires but is also owing to their wonderful reliability.

Where will you find such a restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, to enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves and build up the run down system?

Mr. Geo. Clay, Oxville, Alberta, writes: "I have always been a great admirer of Dr. Chase's Medicines and have had his large Receipt Book for over twenty years. His medicines and book have saved me many doctor bills and have proven wonderfully effective. It costs $40.00 for a doctor to come out here, so it is rather expensive to get sick."

"I recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to a friend of mine for his wife. He studied the symptoms in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to restore her worn out nervous system. I gave him some of this medicine until he could get to town when he got two boxes more and these cured her entirely."

"For myself, I used Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder with splendid results. For some time I was bad with Catarrh and could not breathe through my nose. Now I go to bed and never wake all night and breathe all the time through the nose."

Dr. Chase's Medicines are for sale by all dealers of Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Curfew Bell

To the Editor, Pioneer,

Dear Sir: Having noticed in last week's issue of the paper that there is some talk of having a curfew bell in Didsbury I would just like to say a few words in regard to the subject. In my opinion a curfew bell and restrictions for which the ratepayers would have to defray expenses is quite unnecessary as it is a case in which the parents should assert their authority and if the said parents have not enough authority over their own children to have them off the street at a reasonable hour in the evening then I am sorry for them. Then again would not those same parents be the first to take offence if anyone went to lay complaints against their children since parents as a rule do not like to be told that their children are in fault? besides it would not be a very pleasant talk for the complainant as they might have the door shut in their face and possibly be told it was none of their business. I know I would not fancy having any such complaint made against my own children, but if I tell my boys and girls they are not to go on the street to play after supper they do not even think of disobeying, but where parents have lost all control over their children I am afraid a curfew bell would be of little or no use. A PARENT.

Well, it's official! The Didsbury Centennial year has been proclaimed open. If you weren't downtown on Sunday you missed a wonderful Centennial Kick-off Event. There was a great lunch consisting of hamburgers, hot dogs and some fantastic chilli, wonderful historical displays in the train station, great games for people of all ages, and super entertainment. And as an added bonus, it was all enjoyed for Free!

I would like to thank everyone who came down and made the day a very special one to remember. I would also like to extend my heartfelt thanks to the following:

To the Didsbury Elks for going above and beyond regarding the luncheon, thank you so much. Your efforts were appreciated more than I can express. And the chilli was absolutely wonderful.

To Didsbury AG Foods, thank you for your generous donations toward the supplies and food for the lunch.

To Gord Fulton of Victoria's Flowers & Gifts, the flowers you donated for the dignitaries and the electricity you provided for the games was icing on our centennial cake.

To Lance and Linda Plewis, the posters you provided were beautiful and your ongoing support is so completely appreciated.

To the Didsbury Historical Society and the Didsbury Homecoming Committee, thank you so much for your involvement and continued commitment to our cause.

To Richard and Kumi of Alliance Entertainment Services for providing us with the P.A. and some wonderfully fun games.

To the Polyjesters and George Muza & Friends, the entertainment was wonderful and diverse and was enjoyed by every age group.

To Rita Thompson, George MacDonald, MLA Richard Marz, MP Myron Thompson and Mayor Dorothy Moore thank you for your attendance and rallying behind us by helping us to Proclaim this next year the 100th birthday of our wonderful Town.

To all our extra volunteers who gave 110% throughout the day and the members of the Centennial Committee who have worked hard for months to create a completely successful and memorable event.

This was just the first of many enjoyable events that will occur over the next 12 months, so if you weren't able to be there you will have a lot more opportunities to join in on celebrating Didsbury's birthday. Also, we are always in need of volunteers and if you feel you can help us out in anyway, or if you would like to contribute by designing a centennial light standard flag, please contact the Didsbury Centennial Planning Committee by calling Michelle Honeyman at the Town office at 335-3391 or contacting myself, Deborah Whitmore, at home at 335-8304.

Happy Birthday Didsbury! We are a community of spirit!

Salute to Agriculture

Air quality in livestock buildings can affect the health of farmers

It's no secret that working in livestock buildings can lead to respiratory problems. Some people are unable to cope with the dust found in a stable, particularly while hay is being spread or new bedding is being laid down.

Others experience feelings of chest constrictions or have coughing fits when they stay in a hog house too long. Some farmers are forced to refrain from taking care of their livestock themselves because of chronic bronchitis, workplace-related asthma or "farmer's lung". Some even have to sell their business.

The effects of barn dust on health can be divided into three broad categories. In the first and least severe category, the respiratory system may incur temporary lesions that disappear when it is no longer in contact with the dust. In the second category, the respiratory system may suffer more dangerous lesions resulting in bronchitis or workplace-related asthma, accompanied by symptoms such as coughing, shortness of breath or reduced lung capacity.

In this case, the respiratory system may improve once it is no longer exposed to this dust. In the third and most severe case, farmers can incur irreversible pulmonary lesions; some lung tissue may become permanently damaged and result in reduced lung capacity.

To protect themselves from these potential health problems, farmers should take extra care to limit their contact with mouldy hay, silage and grain as much possible.

They should also wait for hay and grain to be dry before storing them. Spreading or pulverizing organic acids such as pro-ponic acid on hay can prevent mould from developing. When working with hay that may be mouldy, farmers should always wear a positive pressure respirator or face mask that will offer protection against extremely small spores.

Finally, to reduce the growth of bacteria, livestock buildings should be kept clean, and hay and grain reserves should be well ventilated and aerated.

We're Committed to you.

In this farming community we are committed to offer the kind of services and personal attention our farmer friends want and need. We're much more than just another business seeking your patronage. We pledge our continued individual service as we support Agriculture Week.

Keep your children safe!

City folks tend to view farming as a challenging but peaceful way of earning a living. But the 200,000 Canadian families who live on farms know better: farming is one of the most dangerous professions in this country when it comes to work-related injury or death.

For more than 25 years, the Canada Safety Council has been educating farmers and their families on the importance of following the safety rules of farming at all times.

How important is following the rules of farm safety? The statistics speak for themselves: More than two people die from farming-related deaths in Canada each week, far surpassing any other type of home-based business in the country.

Between 1990 and 1996, nearly 700 Canadians died following a farming-related injury.

What's more, 10 percent of work-related deaths and 30 percent of deaths not related to work involved children under the age of 15. In fact, children under this age account for 14 percent of all farming injuries requiring hospitalization.

Children are most likely to be injured during the summer, with one-third of all incidents taking place in the months of July and August.

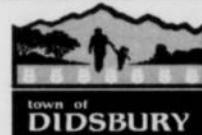

The main source of these accidents? In 67 percent of fatal accidents and 62 percent of injuries requiring hospitalization, farming machinery was the culprit.

Sadly, most of these accidents and deaths could easily have been avoided. Being vigilant at all times is all it takes to avoid these tragedies. Practicing what you preach can make all the difference between life and death.

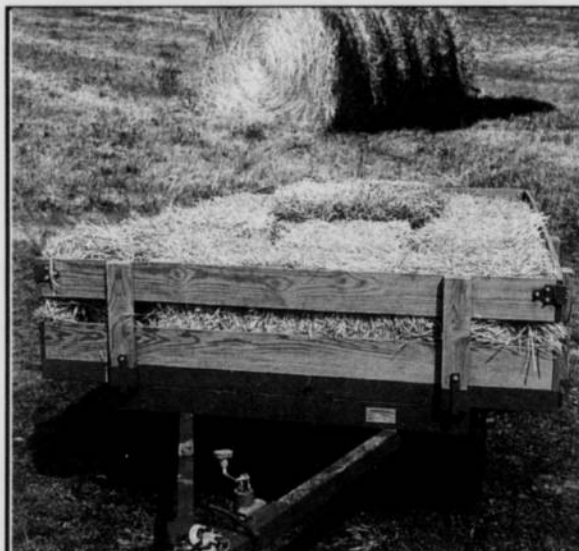

Farmers and their employees should always pay particular attention to their working methods and habits to ensure their own safety.

Children learn by example, so if you are careful, they will be, too. Accidents don't just happen to others.

What is the Agri-Food Trade Service?

The Agri-Food Trade Service is the agri-food branch of Team Canada Inc. Its mission is to help businesses expand to an international scale. Its network covers all government services available to the industry on the subject of international development. It acts as a major liaison for agri-food exporters by facilitating access to commercial information on international markets, providing investment advice and offering export support.

ATS has created a number of initiatives to help producers export their products. In addition to its investment advice services and agri-food Commerce Program, ATS helps producers benefit from the expertise of foreign experts in the field of agri-food business, provides financial support for professional trade shows and offers a training program for agri-food products (AgFITT). Canadian exporters of agri-food products can also find information on commerce and international markets on the ATS website, which includes a wealth of export and business-related information and advice. In addition, ATS supports Canada's International Business Strategy, which has developed action plans targeting priority and emerging markets.

ATS works toward increased collaboration with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, through a network of commercial agents responsible for the promotion of agri-food product exports in foreign offices. Locally, agents working in the regional offices of the Market and Industry Services Branch promote the services of the ATS in collaboration with provincial representatives and other federal departments.

Enriching soil with recycled potatoes

Growing potatoes can be hard on the land. As a result, composting and mulching techniques are currently being studied to find new and improved ways of enriching the soil used for growing potatoes.

Based on these studies, it now appears that creating a compost made of small, low-quality potatoes unfit for commercialization, and applying it with straw mulch, can significantly prevent soil erosion in fields.

One particular study measured the impact of potato compost and mulch on soil loss and on the soil's physical characteristics.

The results show that the compost increased the soil's humidity by seven percent and that applying the compost during dry periods is a beneficial agricultural practice. The mulch increased the quantity of water in the soil by six or seven percent.

What's more, this study demonstrated that the compost protected the soil from compacting under the weight of farming machinery, which tends to result in erosion.

In fact, the compost reduced compacting by 20 percent. It could also help keep the subsoil open. The mulch, for its part, reduced soil loss by nearly 50 percent.

It also resulted in improved soil structure, increased resistance to erosion and an enrichment of organic materials.

The methods studied during these trials should be of interest to producers of organic products or small farms looking for cultivating methods that will protect the environment while ensuring their financial viability. Composting and mulch could be exactly what they have been looking for.

Tips for healthy poultry

There are a few simple rules to follow if you want to keep your poultry healthy.

First of all, after your poultry have been sent to the processing plant, you have to remove all the litter, clean the building and equipment with a high-pressure sprayer and thoroughly disinfect them.

You then need to lay fresh, clean litter—preferably preservative-free wood shavings. What's more, you should only keep poultry of the same age together in each building, since older animals can easily transmit disease to younger ones.

You can also prevent introducing disease into the building by keeping broilers away from other poultry, rodents and visitors.

Carefully examine your poultry every day, and immediately remove any that are sick or dead. If you believe your poultry are suffering from disease, contact a veterinarian or pathology laboratory.

There are other things you can do to keep your poultry in good health. Keep the water in their drinking bowl fresh and free of any harmful minerals or contaminants. When in doubt, have it lab tested.

You might also consider consulting a poultry expert or veterinarian. When it comes to feeding, following a standard feeding program is a good place to start. However, you need to regularly check the feed storage tanks or bins.

Since most nutrients—especially vitamins—deteriorate over time, never store food for more than four weeks.

Last but not least, keep an eye on your ventilation system to ensure the proper amount of air exchange according to the age of your poultry and the current weather conditions.

Renovating a farm or livestock building

Renovating a farm or livestock building can be a huge undertaking. Sometimes these projects affect more than just the particular building or structure requiring repairs.

For example, the work you do on one building could have serious repercussions on the structural integrity of the surrounding buildings. Repairing or renovating a structure could also inadvertently alter its original parameters.

Erecting a new building can have an influence on the weight or pressure of other buildings. It may also affect wind direction and the way in which snow builds up.

Reinforcing a roof so that it can better withstand the weight of snow is a common renovation project.

But when this roof is near another roof on a lower building or beside a row of trees to break the wind, the effects of this common renovation project can sometimes be less than ideal.

In these cases, we often foresee the possible consequences on that particular roof, but we may overlook how the surrounding roofs may be affected.

In extreme cases, our "improvements" can cause another roof to cave in completely.

Before renovating or building a structure, first verify whether existing buildings will need to be modified in order to maintain their structural integrity.

This may be the case when building a new silo, planting a row of trees to block the wind, or erecting a tall building that will tower over an existing structure.

Alberta announces BSE go-forward strategy

The Alberta government today took a major step forward in assisting its struggling beef industry with a BSE go-forward six-point recovery strategy and $230 million in new BSE funds.

The six elements of the strategy include addressing slaughter capacity, new product development, set-aside programs, surveillance, the Canadian Agricultural Income Stabilization (CAIS) Program as well as research initiatives.

Funds announced today cover Alberta's 40-per-cent share of two new national cattle programs as well as made-in-Alberta components. In addition, funds will help cover the BSE surveillance costs to help meet international testing targets.

Shirley McClellan, Deputy Premier and Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development said the province is serious about helping its beef industry through tough times. "Our help begins today, with quarter billion in assistance and a go-forward six-point plan developed with extensive industry consultation to ensure our cattle industry has a viable future."

"We appreciate the federal government's commitment to reposition our beleaguered Canadian cattle industry," said McClellan. "These national solutions, combined with Alberta's go-forward recovery strategy, are welcome news for our industry."

Alberta will contribute its 40-per-cent share of a national program to set aside a percentage of the 2004 calf crop. Programs that fit the needs of other ruminants are also being developed.

Alberta also will contribute its 40-per-cent share of a national program to set aside market-ready cattle until slaughter capacity increases to deal with an oversupply of cattle. However based on industry advice, Alberta will offer an additional program component called a basis component. It will ensure the market functions to the fullest extent possible and that producers are not unduly disadvantaged if they delay marketing their cattle.

McClellan said the Alberta government and the province's cattle industry also are committed to reaching and surpassing BSE surveillance targets to help maintain Canada's status as a minimal risk country. A BSE Surveillance Program will offer reimbursement to complement rates to be provided by the Canadian Food Inspection Agency. Producers will receive $150 per eligible sample from the province and abattoirs will receive $75 per head to compensate for their additional costs. Alberta will pay veterinarians for the portion of their services not covered by the federal government.

Arno Doerksen, Chairman of the Alberta Beef Producers, said cattle producers continue to appreciate the support provided by the provincial government. "This is what industry asked for and the Alberta government responded by making us part-nars once again in designing and implementing programs to meet our needs."

Meanwhile, McClellan said Alberta producers continue to benefit from the Canadian Agricultural Stabilization (CAIS) Program. More than $110 million is in producers' hands in claim payments and advances.

OBITUARY

KAUPP - Dale Matthew Kaupp was born December 12, 1971, died unexpectedly on September 14, 2004 from injuries sustained in a motor vehicle accident. Dale is survived by his wife, Louise Sanderson-Kaupp of Olds and their children Tanner, Hailey, Christopher, Michael, and Jessica; his mother Judy Kaupp of Didsbury; his sister Angela (Terry) Krall of Medicine Hat and their children Ashleigh and Kurtis; his sister Joanne (Noel) Wygiera of Fort Macleod and their children Hannah, Aidan, and Karis; his grandfather Arthur "Bob" DeWitt of McAdam, NB, as well as numerous aunts, uncles and cousins. Dale was predeceased by his father, Bernard Kaupp of Didsbury, and his grandparents, Georgina DeWitt of McAdam, NB, and Paul and Mary Ellen Kaupp of Pincher Creek. Although Dale had struggled with personal and health issues in his life, he was determined to succeed. At the time of his passing, he was a student at S.A.I.T. and was studying for a career as a building inspector. Dale will be remembered as a devoted father, loving husband, and true and loyal friend to many. Funeral Mass was held on Tuesday, September 21 at 11:00 a.m. at St. Stephen's Catholic Church, Olds with Father Les Drewicki celebrant. Memorial donations may be made directly to a trust fund set up for the children through Mountain View Credit Union.
